PlantHaven Launches Royal Hawaiian Colocasia Collection at Pack Trials

Santa Barbara, California, March 4, 2008 – The PlantHaven team is “going Hawaiian” this spring with the introduction of the new Royal Hawaiian Colocasia Collection. The collection will be previewed at their Pack Trials location at Island View Nurseries, March 31 to April 4. The varieties will be available in retail garden centers in 2009.

This sensational collection comes from internationally acclaimed Hawaiian breeder, John Cho, who has achieved outstanding success with his new series. This collection is unlike any other variety on today’s market. These ornamental varieties are bred to be disease resistant and are sturdy garden performers with fabulous foliage and stem interest along with a tidy clumping habit in the garden.

Be sure to stop by to view this sensational display and meet with the breeder!
